FAQ (same questions answered for each website)

How easy is it to get started?

EconEdLink is an absolutely free resource provided by the Verizon Network. All of the lessons are Internet-based and free to everyone. No registration is required. The Internet-based lessons are targeted for K-12 teachers and their students. Each of the lessons includes a teacher's version as well as a student's version. Each of the lessons is designed to be delivered in a variety of formats and classroom settings.

Is this website a stand-alone lesson or is it best used as a supplement?

This website is best used as a supplement for teachers in teaching economics/financial literacy. It provides access to lesson plans and a large number of online economic interactive tools that are classified by their related concepts. It also provides access to an economic newsletter, a link to current key economic indicators, a calendar of historical events, current events, economic web links, data links, and more. All of this information can be accessed from the EconEdLink home page and the "Educator," "Student," and "After School" pages.

How much time will my students need to complete the activity? Also, is this one activity or a series of activities that must be completed as a whole?

The completion time will vary according to the choice of lesson/interactive activity which would be determined by the teacher.

What kind, if any, assessments or pre-/post-testing is provided?

No assessments or pre-/post-testing is provided.

Are there any supplements or lesson extensions provided for the classroom?

Yes. The lesson plans provided for each concept are numerous. You can cover one concept with numerous lessons and also incorporate an interactive activity.

What grade levels would benefit from this website?

This website is best used by teachers for students in grades K-12. The teacher will determine the grade level and choose individual lessons to teach and can choose to incorporate interactive activities as well.

How can I learn more about the topics covered by this website?

Browse EconEdlink online economic and personal finance lessons by Lesson Type, Concept, Standard, Grade, Interactive Resource, Author or word search. Teachers choose how you would like to view the lessons by clicking on the appropriate indicator in the indicated drop down bar.
